

Georgia
(David Buehrer)

I'm sorry for everyone who's hurt you
I don't know why we've been so cruel
You're just what everyone needs
You love life like a child and I know that's right

I'm sure I don't understand the way I should
And probably would offend you with my thoughts
You're just what everyone needs
You love life like a child and I know that's right

I can't help but think you'd rather be somewhere else
And not have to laugh when you're supposed to laugh
Smile when it's right to smile
And feel love when you're not feeling loved

I once knew a boy a lot like you
He loved to dream and play and was proud
It's too bad he grew up
But he's glad you didn't

I can't help but think you'd rather be somewhere else
And not have to laugh when you're supposed to laugh
Smile when it's right to smile
And feel love when you're not feeling loved

I'm sorry for everyone who's hurt you
I don't know why we've been so cruel
You live in a home
It seems to be okay with you